

NOTE FROM THE CEO

Hello my fellow poker players

With such great players as Phil Ivey taking their place at yet another final table, it backs up again the fact that poker is indeed a game of skill. We are working diligently to meet our goal of launching RealDealPoker this year. We have added several new professionals to our staff, are working towards finalizing our poker software platform to integrate with our proprietary Cut N' Shuffle® and Game Check™ Technology, and look forward to bringing all poker players the look, feel, and advantages of the "Real Deal" for online poker.

We have received hundreds of emails from poker players asking when we are going to open. We appreciate every one of them and sincerely thank you for your continued interest and support. We have placed great emphasis on making sure that we will be the product of choice for you the players and as you know we will not compromise our commitment to integrity and honesty. That remains our commitment to you!

So thank you once again for your continued support and we look forward to making our launch date public in the very near future. Until then, good luck at the tables!

Gene Gioia

The November Nine is set...

The World Series of Poker is often seen as the pinnacle of the global poker tournament calendar. Indeed from a players' perspective, to be one of the "November Nine" is seen as a lifetime achievement aiming for shot at glory and at this year's 2009 event a first prize of over $8.5million! Click here for story

It's estimated that nearly 80% of the total playing field of the WSOP qualify via online poker satellites. But with poker now being a mainstream sport in its own right, the WSOP of course is just one of thousands of tournaments across the planet with most of them now securing players from online qualifications on a host of different sites.

This online qualification can mean hours sitting at the computer playing your way to the land based events. And of course everyone wants to know that they have as equal a shot at qualification as the next player! Gioia Systems intends to be at the forefront of online qualification to major land based tournaments and we are now in spitting distance of launching RealDealPoker.com, our flagship site that will be powered by Cut N' Shuffle® to ensure a totally fair game of online poker !

We have been seeking out the best poker platform with which to integrate Cut N' Shuffle® and have spent a huge amount of time meeting with various companies who have been bidding to work with us. We have crossed the globe in our search to ensure we launch with the best platform to handle all of the back end operations of RealDealPoker.com. The Company is also in the stages of finalising its gaming licence and with the completion of the poker platform software agreement we will shortly have all the ingredients in place to make a formal launch date announcement .

REAL DEAL POKER NEWSFRONT

We are also pleased to announce that our international team continues to expand with the appointment of London based Stephen Pearson as our Chief Marketing Officer. Stephen has over 15 years experience in international sports and media industries prior to his last 5 years in the gaming industry and we are delighted to have him lead the marketing operations for the Company.

Thank you all for your continued support and we will be keeping you fully up to date over these next few exciting months as we gear up to launch !

If you have any questions or wish to make comments please email customerservice@gioiasystems.com